

Glenalmond College
let your story begin

OG Denis Puzanov (Mathson's, 2016-2018)

International pupil from Kazakhstan.

Perhaps I want to start with the fact that training at Glenalmond College is my first experience of studying abroad and this experience is positive.

Glenalmond College is located on the green fields of Scotland near the small town of Perth. The school looks like a huge castle that conveys the beauty of architecture of past centuries, but there is also a modern scientific center that gives pupils the opportunity to use modern equipment in their scientific experiments. Also on a vast territory there are fields for rugby, football, field hockey, tennis courts and indoor pool.

The college positions itself as a place of developing personality, helps students acquire leadership qualities, the ability to defend their point of view and encourages to develop not only intellectually, but physically and spiritually. To do this, there are a lot of "circles" in the school that are held after the lessons and therefore the day will always be full and interesting. Also the school provides preparation for the IELTS exams.

Teachers are professionals in their field, approaching their subject with interest.

Since most of the pupils are native British, my spoken English has improved significantly in a relatively short time. However, it was interesting to know that pupils from faraway Australia and Chile are studying here.

I'm glad that I chose Glenalmond and I'm sure the knowledge obtained here will help in the future admission to the university.
